【解答例】

My most memorable day was when I went on a school trip to Osaka with my classmates. I had never been anywhere without my parents, so even though I was nervous, it was exciting for me to travel around only with my teacher and classmates.

The most enjoyable part of my trip was that I was able to decide with my group what we should do for our free afternoon. Since most of our trip was planned by the teachers, it was so much fun to decide for ourselves what to do and have the freedom to be away from our parents and teachers in an unfamiliar place.

The reason this trip was most memorable to me is that it helped me to become more confident. I am now very eager to travel to many places abroad. Osaka was just the beginning of many traveling experiences I want to have in the future.
